

145 Adams Avenue, Hauppauge, NY 11788 USA
Tel: (631) 435-1110 • Fax: (631) 435-1824
w w w . c e n t r a l s e m i . c o m

Updated: March 20, 2020

Valued Customers,

With the world now confronted with the COVID-19 pandemic, we thought it prudent to share the actions Central Semiconductor Corp. is taking to insure the health and wellbeing of our team members, as well as provide continued support to our valued customers and partners. First and foremost our hearts go out to all those affected by the impact of COVID-19.

Central is fully operational and to date deliveries have not been affected. Central continues to comply with all federal, NY state, and local mandates and has implemented comprehensive personal hygiene, sanitization, and social distancing best practices in its facilities. Many of our members have remote capabilities including video conferencing which allows working from home. Engineering, quality, test, operations, IT, and accounting support continue to be available as needed.

Central has increased regular communications with its supply chain and channel partners, insuring they are up to date on new products, services and delivery information. February's on-time delivery continued to remain above 99%. Please also keep in mind that requests targeted for Central's engineering or quality teams can be made and tracked via Central's website, by using a my.Centralsemi.com login.

In an effort to proactively ensure that timely delivery of orders is not affected by possible complications due to the ongoing pandemic, Central is expediting shipments whenever available, for up to 2 weeks ahead of the scheduled ship date. Central recommends that customers support this option and communicate preferences as soon as possible to their Regional Sales Manager, Customer Relationship Manager, or channel partner.

Central continues to innovate, offer unique solutions and insure on-time delivery of products. Our ultimate goal is complete customer and partner satisfaction. We will continue to provide updates as developments occur and we thank you for your continued support. The Central team wishes each of you and your families the best as we navigate these challenges together.

Central Semiconductor Corp.